

Dear Parents,

Children develop pre-reading skills in preschool. They enjoy books with interesting objects, bright colors and stories about things they can relate to. Books that are predictable and patterned enable them to “read” stories by looking at the pictures and relying on memory. Reading with your child 15-20 minutes each day can have a positive lifelong impact.

Please return this log after reading 10 books and your child will be entered into our summer reading contest where they can win more books to read at home. The more your child reads, the greater your child’s chance of winning.
